Your server and network infrastructure is the backbone of your operations, and any service interruptions result in wasted time and money. Your network is full of moving parts, but each moving part brings additional risks. To keep things running smoothly, you need to ensure drivers and software are properly updated—all of which takes valuable resources away from key projects.

Bleuwire acts as your single point of contact for any vendor management needs, efficiently solving any issues or concerns. We take a physical inventory of all of your hardware and software, including serial numbers, warranties, registrations, licenses and configurations. We document all this information for easy access, so our team can determine who to call if there's an issue. You benefit from having a knowledgeable IT project management partner that evaluates solutions and negotiates with vendors, ensuring you get the best services and pricing possible.
